yuki

By Adam Cornish, 2021

Inspired by the perfect proportions of the Japanese shoji screen, Yuki is an exceptionally comfortable outdoor seating series comprising a sofa and an armchair. Its graphic frame features structural curves that appear playfully inflated, adding to the visual interest and overall comfort of the collection. Nesting into the frame in an intentional contrast between hard and soft are large, inviting cushions.

Made in Melbourne from stainless steel, premium exterior-grade foam and high-performance outdoor fabric, Yuki is designed robustly enough to be used across a variety of public or private contexts.

The scope of Adam Cornish's work includes an impressive range of design disciplines, from furniture and household innovation, to commercial and residential installations.

Cornish's interest in design stems from his curiosity into the 'how'; how things are made, how they perform and how they will endure the test of time.
