by Adam Goodrum, 2022

Designed by Adam Goodrum, Lincoln is a new sofa collection that channels the practical prestige and luxurious functionality synonymous with the Lincoln Continental vehicle ranges of the 1970s. Inspired by the car's generous long lines, proportions and low clearance chassis, the design of the Lincoln sofa collection is characterised by the same classic elegance and deep proportions. In a nod to the car's bench seat and various seat arrangements, the Lincoln sofa features a signature wide inner armrest and extensive modularity.

The blade like legs are available in brushed stainless steel and powder coated mild steel. The upholstered seat, back and arms are all separate components fixed to a timber base sled, which offers even more customising with mixed upholstery options. Small floating coffee tables can also be added to the ends of the Lincoln sofa in solid timber in oak or walnut.

A firm believer that every environment is defined by the objects within it, Adam Goodrum designs with the philosophy that an object must therefore justify its existence – through its story and detailing. For this reason, his designs celebrate process and craftsmanship, and accentuate components and joinery to create functional pieces with spirit and personality.

In recent years, Goodrum's work has been awarded a host of design accolades including the NGV Rigg Prize, Vogue x Alessi Design Prize, Indesign Luminary Award and the Idea Awards Editor's Medal. He has also been commissioned to design pieces for several global luxury brands including Veuve Clicquot, Alessi and Cappellini.
